

Post-Doc Position in South Korea

YeungNam University in South Korea is currently recruiting 1-2 post-doctoral researchers for an immediate start. (http://www.yu.ac.kr/_english/main/index.php)

- July 1 2009 deadline for applications / Sept 1 2009 start date
- 1 year contract but it can be renewed until August 2012 in accordance with evaluation

As part of the World Class Universities (WCU) project, we have recently been awarded a 3-year competitive grant, running from April 2009 to August 2012, by the Korean Ministry of Education, Science and Technology. (For further details: http://www.kosef.re.kr/english_new/programs/programs_06_02.html)

* Salary will be about 3M Korean Won per month and conference travel money is available

* Note that travel cost from your home country to Korea is NOT provided

Successful applicants will join the team led by Prof. Han Woo Park, Prof. Greg Elmer of Infoscape Research Lab (Canada, <http://www.infoscapelab.ca>) and Prof. Maurice Vergeer of Radboud University (the Netherlands) and carry out a project titled "Investigating Internet-based Politics with e-Research Tools"

Project Goal: The project proposed the development of new research methods and tools to track the impact of web 2.0 technologies and "user generated content" on Korean political life.

Successful applicants should have English communication skills and the ability to work in a team. Experience in computer programming, information science, network analysis, or internet politics is desirable but not a must.

For further information or to be considered for the post, please send your CV, a personal statement, and a list of two referees to Dr Han Woo Park at hanpark@ynu.ac.kr.

We are also inviting a few WCU-funded Master and Doctoral students in the Department of Media & Communication. For this, applications should reach by 17.00 on 20 May 2009 (If you are late for this semester, we are recruiting students in both Spring and Fall Semesters), and successful applicants will be announced on 15 June.
